Lochman Lectures 2023 – Communication of the Gospel

Each generation of the church in each setting has the responsibility of communicating the gospel in understandable terms, considering the language and thought-forms of that setting.

FRANCIS SCHAEFFER

The 'Evangelische Studienhaus Basel/Riehen', a house for Christian students, is run by a society which supports the work of the house and encourages Christian dialogue in our time. The students who live in the 'Studienhaus' organise an evensong in the local church and invite others regularly to theological discussions and bible studies.

In this conference, we will be looking at the topic of which types of communication for the gospel in our world can be meaningful and groundbreaking for people. The experiences through the pandemic as well as the changed processes resulting from the digitization of society have made it clear to us that we should be ready to think again in an interdisciplinary manner about how our mission to testify to the Gospel of Jesus Christ in and for the world can be rethought and approached in a fresh way. We invite students, pastors, deacons, specialists from other areas as well as interested people from church and society to this conference as well as to the individual lectures. We look forward to a lively, progressive and visionary exchange.

Jan Milič Lochman (1922–2004) was a professor of systematic theology at the University of Basel. Throughout his life he was committed to students and to the concerns of the worldwide church.
